Lisa Marie Graves has decades of experience helping professionals at all levels take the next step in their businesses, identify and target opportunities, and chart a rewarding career path that achieves specific goals.

Lisa began her career in the U.S. Air Force, where she specialized in helping service personnel succeed in their career paths. She retired from the military after 21 years and, armed with an MBA from Keller Graduate School of Management, she began helping civilian business men and women structure their careers in a purposeful, strategic way to achieve their goals.

In 2013, Lisa founded MLJS Legacy, a company that provides powerful resources for decision makers, employees, owners and entrepreneurs. She is a business coach, mentor, marketing consultant, speaker and trainer who truly makes a difference in a company's path to success. A leadership expert, Lisa empowers business people to focus, set goals, overcome obstacles and achieve more than they believed possible.

Lisa is an inspiring and motivating speaker and provides unique opportunities for professionals to network and continue to grow their skills. She is the host of the annual men's and women's Legacy Conferences. Lisa speaks at chambers of commerce meetings, professional networking groups, service organizations and leadership conferences.

Lisa Marie also participates in programs to help veterans find employment when they leave the military. As a decorated veteran with a stellar record in the civilian business world, Lisa Marie often is their "you can do it" example of success after the uniform.
